Real-life Stories

"I was recently let go from work but I was only entitled to £95 of benefits for another 4 weeks, it was devastating. I was offered food bank vouchers and refused due to pride. I was lonely, broke and reluctant to turn to family and friends due to shame and pride.

I was called by a lovely man from the job centre who advised the food parcels are lovely, delivered and discreet, so I agreed to have a food bank parcel. I am elated! I have not smiled this much in weeks, it was absolutely everything my children and I needed. Thank you so, so much. Without you I don't know what I'd have done."

"I have always been capable of work and able to afford to pay my bills but at the moment my health means I cannot work. I'm struggling with money and sometimes I can't even afford my medication and also the struggle of normal bills. I've to use credit cards which is making me sink in debts, I've never been in this situation nor have I ever asked for help.

Therefore this help I'm getting with the food is very welcome and useful, all of it has always been well used, and it's a God-send. I also praise all your helpers and volunteers and all of those that one way or another are involved in helping in your food bank. Thank you very much from the bottom of my heart, I'm very thankful to you all."
